MET. AMATEUR DRAMATIC SOCIETY

PRESENTS

Act III – The Castle and the Forest and the Cottage

In which a dastardly plan is hatched and a rescue is attempted.

Act IV – The Cottage

In which the final showdown is faced and everyone lives happily ever after.

This Pantomime is brought to you by Met.
Amateur Dramatic Society and Keeley/Hermanson Productions. Any relation between characters and persons alive or dead is entirely intended and meant to cause maximum embarrassment. No scientific research was squandered during the making of this production. The quality of puns can go down as well as up. Your sanity is at risk if you fail to take proper precautions. All works are copyright to the authors but we haven't told you who they are so feel free to rip us off if you're that desperate.
